Tarbert Harbour

LOCATION

The property occupies a prominent coastal headland on the west coast of the Kintyre Peninsula in Argyll & Bute, approximately 2.5 km north of Tayinloan. Situated directly off the A83, it enjoys a spectacular setting with far-reaching views across the Sound of Gigha towards the islands of Gigha, Islay and Jura. The surrounding area is characterised by productive agricultural land, open countryside and an attractive coastline of recognised environmental importance, while remaining well connected to the principal settlements of Tarbert to the north and Campbeltown to the south.

The property lies within a peaceful rural landscape of low-density settlement and grazing land, approximately 16 miles south of Tarbert and 22 miles north of Campbeltown. Set on low-lying coastal ground adjacent to the sea, it benefits from an exceptional Atlantic-facing position within one of Scotland's most scenic coastal environments.

Access is obtained directly from the A83 Tarbert Road via a single-track hardcore lane, leading to double entrance gates which provide access into the property.

DESCRIPTION

Situated within an area long associated with salmon farming, the property extends to approximately 25.83 acres (10.45 hectares) comprising a former coastal fish farming installation with associated shoreline infrastructure. The predominantly level site has been largely cleared of its former operational structures, creating an attractive development opportunity with considerable scope for redevelopment, subject to planning and statutory approvals.

Located at the centre of the site is a substantial storage building extending to approximately 490 sq m (5,274 sq ft). Constructed of timber under a pitched corrugated sheet roof, the building provides useful storage accommodation. The vendor advises that all asbestos-containing materials have been removed from the site; further information and supporting documentation are available upon request.

The property benefits from extant planning permission under reference 16/03227/PP for the renewal of planning permission 13/02060/PP relating to the redevelopment of the site to accommodate a closed-containment recirculating aquaculture production facility, including staff accommodation, wastewater treatment infrastructure, associated access and parking arrangements, ancillary development works, and demolition of existing structures. The consent presents a significant development opportunity for a new operator to establish a modern aquaculture facility with supporting infrastructure already considered in principle through the planning process.

DEVELOPMENT POTENTIAL

The land has strong potential for low-density, nature-led tourism development due to its coastal setting, sea views across to Gigha, Islay and Jura, and proximity to the A83 corridor and Tayinloan ferry link.

Suitable alternative uses could include a holiday caravan or lodge park, making use of the flat coastal ground for touring pitches or static lodges, ideally designed as an eco-focused or premium coastal retreat.

Other viable options could include a glamping site (pods, cabins, or safari tents), a motorhome touring stopover park, or a boutique holiday village with beach access and nature-based amenities such as walking trails, wildlife viewing areas, or a small marina/boatyard-style leisure facility.

Given the scenic but remote context, developments that emphasise low visual impact, environmental integration, and outdoor recreation (e.g., kayaking, fishing, and wildlife tourism) would likely align best with planning policy in this part of Argyll & Bute.

A more niche alternative could be a wellness or retreat-style development, incorporating cabins or lodges with spa/sauna facilities targeting the “off-grid luxury” market, which is increasingly popular in west coast Scotland. However, all options would need to address access constraints, utilities provision, and coastal planning sensitivity.

GENERAL REMARKS

Services

The property benefits from a private borehole water supply. A three-phase mains electricity supply previously served the property but has since been disconnected, although the associated infrastructure remains in situ.

Drainage was previously by way of septic tanks, which have since been removed.
